

Poor Race Relations:

the one enduring scar resulting from the capture, transport, and enslavement of Africans to the United States.

Race Relations in the News

- During the spring of 2014, Donald Sterling, former owner of the L.A. Clippers, was stripped of his team based on comments he made to his former girlfriend about how she “should not associate with blacks.”

His attitude toward blacks, evident by his relationships with his many black employees and his Asian girlfriend, was compared by one journalist as similar to the mindset of slave owners at the height of American slavery.

Race Relations in the News

During the summer of 2013, many corporations cancelled their endorsement relationships with celebrity chef Paula Deen, because a former employee reported hearing Deen say “nigger” several years earlier, among other charges.

(CNN) – July 3, 2013 -- Celebrity chef Paula Deen denies she's ever told racial jokes, but she did acknowledge using the "N word," according to her deposition in a lawsuit.

A former manager at Deen's restaurants in Savannah, Georgia, is suing her and her brother for sexual and racial harassment.

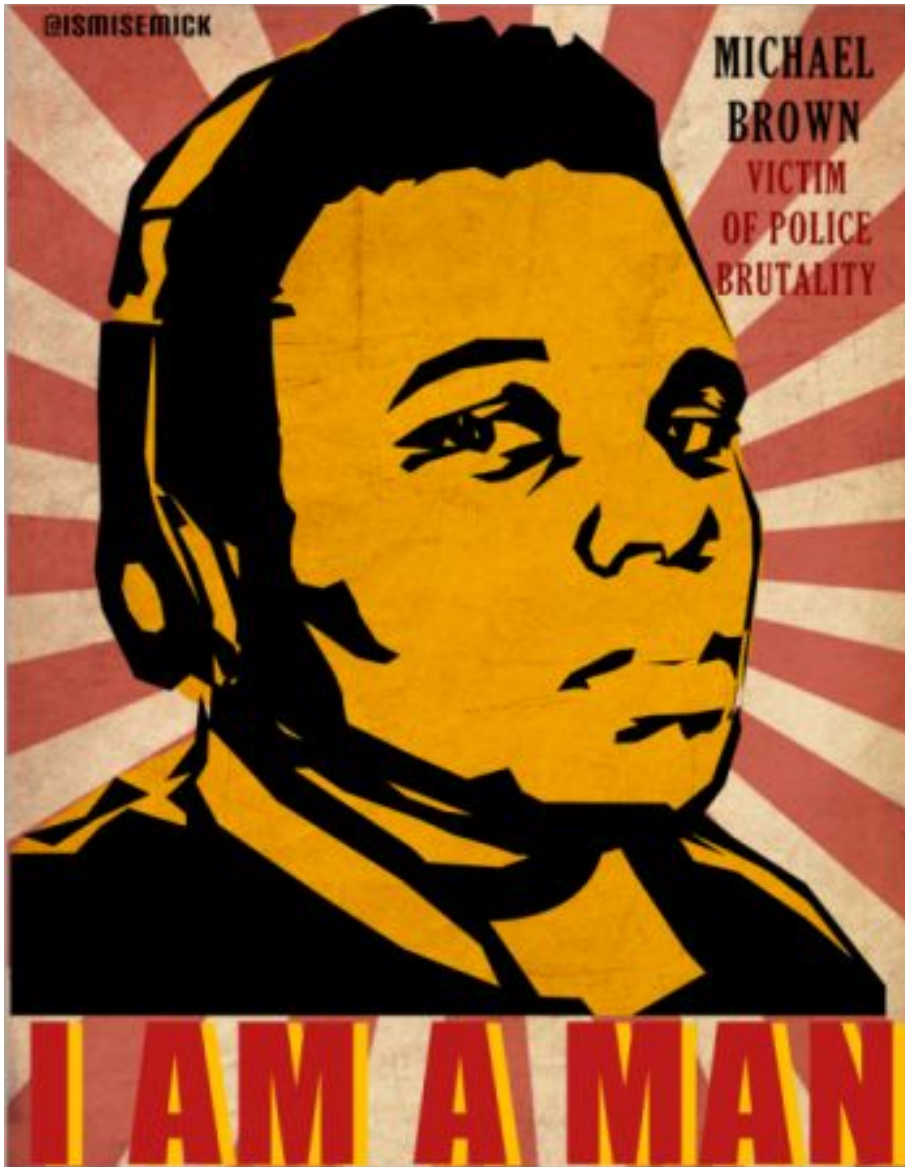

Lisa T. Jackson's lawsuit alleges that Deen and Bubba Hier committed numerous acts of violence, discrimination, and racism that resulted in the end of Jackson's five-year employment at Deen's Lady & Sons and Bubba's Seafood and Oyster House restaurants in Savannah.

Race Relations in the News

- Trayvon Martin of Sanford, Florida

Race Relations in the News

- Michael Brown, Ferguson, Mo.

Race Relations in the News

Race Relations in the News

Eric Garner of NYC

2020

Race Relations in the News George Floyd of Minneapolis

